

Sadie's 17/2/17 Roving Reporter Round-up

The last few weeks here at Hipsburn have been fun and exciting with trips, activities and big events! All classes have had a great, few last weeks before the half-term holiday.

Alnwick Class have been on a trip to the Centre for Life in Newcastle. They had fun learning about the universe. They also held an assembly for the whole school about Space and they sang, read poems and Preschool showed off their great dance! The parents came to watch and they all loved it.

Year Ones in Bamburgh have also had an assembly about their topic this half-term, 'Food, Glorious Food!' It featured the class acting out a fruit-themed story called Handa's Surprise (which was very funny in places!); they also showed us their great counting skills in tens. In addition they recited from memory a food poem with their loud, clear voices, it went down very well with the audience.

Lindisfarne Castle created very interesting faces with one little twist- they created the faces with FRUIT! As part of their topic they made these great, very interesting and original works of art which were all so different. The faces demonstrated different emotions: some were happy, sad, angry or confused, but they were all fabulous!

Some Year Threes and Fours were selected to compete at a Multi-Skills tournament at Willowburn Leisure Centre against other schools in the area. Everyone played skilfully, showed great sportsmanship and we did very well although we didn't win. St. Michael's school won but they deserved to.

Ford Class invited the school and the parents to a Science Fair! All of us created something interesting to do with our topic Earth and Space; people could come round and learn lots! There were facts, models, artwork and experiments, everyone loved it and were very enthusiastic! The visitors who came enjoyed it; even some of the adults who came said they learned new things about the Solar System and the natural Earth.

Now we are all ready for the half-term holidays after all our hard work! We have all enjoyed these last few weeks at Hipsburn and we will see you after the holidays.
